

UNITED STATES MISSION TO THE UNITED NATIONS
NEW YORK

March 23, 2012

HC-43-12

The United States Mission to the United Nations presents its compliments to the Permanent Missions and Observer Offices to the United Nations and has the honor to present a notice outlining U.S. income tax requirements as they relate to dependent family member employment authorizations.

Eligible dependent family members of certain foreign government and international organization employees assigned to duty in the United States are authorized to work in the United States. This benefit is made available to eligible dependent family members in accordance with the terms and conditions established under bilateral work agreements, de facto work arrangements or regulations of the United States Citizenship and Immigration Services. To the extent consistent with other applicable international agreements, locally employed eligible dependent family members are responsible for the payment of federal, state, local, or municipal taxes imposed on income received as a result of their employment in the United States.

The Internal Revenue Service's (IRS) Publication 519, "U.S. Tax Guide for Aliens" outlines the rules and procedures associated with the Federal income tax filing requirements of foreign aliens in the United States. For tax purposes, the IRS classifies a foreign alien as either a “nonresident alien” or a “resident alien.”

Individuals whose entry into the United States was authorized pursuant to the presentation of an “A” or “G” series visa are considered by the IRS to be “nonresident aliens” for tax purposes and as a result are authorized to use ONLY either Form 1040NR “U.S. Nonresident Alien Income Tax Return” or Form 1040NR-EZ “U.S. Income Tax Return for Certain Nonresident Aliens with No Dependents” for filing their Federal income tax return. In addition, nonresidents are not eligible to claim anyone as a dependent for Federal income tax purposes, unless such nonresidents are nationals of Canada, Mexico or the Republic of Korea.

Thus, locally employed eligible dependent family members must annually file with the IRS either Form 1040NR or Form 1040NR-EZ, and provide the United States Mission to the United Nations copies of such filed forms in order to obtain a renewal of their employment authorizations. An employed dependent’s failure to provide proof of filing of the correct IRS Forms will result in the denial of an employment authorization renewal.

Questions concerning most matters associated with the Federal income tax requirements of such dependent should be referred to the IRS either by telephone at 1-800-829-1040, or by visiting a local IRS office.

Questions concerning the specific rules and procedures associated with the filing of state, local, or municipal income tax returns should be directed to the tax authority responsible for the imposition of such requirements.
